UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

MARCUS MAY,

No. C-11-02204 JCS

Plaintiff,

ORDER GRANTING PLAINTIFF’S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT,
DENYING DEFENDANT’S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT AND REMANDING FOR AWARD OF BENEFITS [Docket Nos. 31, 36]

v.

AT&T UMBRELLA BENEFIT PLAN NO. 1,

Defendant.

I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff Marcus May brings this action for disability benefits under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B), which provides for civil actions against employee benefit plans governed by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”), 29 U.S.C. §§ 1001 et seq. Plaintiff alleges that short-term disability benefits to which he was entitled under the terms of the employee benefit plan offered by his employer, AT&T Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1 (“the Plan”), were wrongfully terminated. The parties bring cross-motions for summary judgment, which are presently before the Court. The Court finds that the motions are suitable for determination without oral argument, pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7-1(b). For the reasons stated below, Plaintiff’s summary judgment motion is GRANTED and Defendant’s summary judgment motion is DENIED.<sup>1</sup>

1 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2 A. The Disability Plan

3 At all relevant times, Plaintiff has been covered by the AT&T Mobility Disability Benefits 4 Program (“the Disability Plan”). Declaration of John D. Adkins in Support of Defendant AT&T
5 Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1’s Motion for Summary Judgment (“Adkins Decl.”) ¶ 3. The Disability 6 Plan is a component of the larger AT&T Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1 (“the Umbrella Plan”). Joint 7 Statement of Undisputed Material Facts (“UMF”) No. 1.

8 Under the terms of the Disability Plan, AT&T Inc. is the Plan Administrator and, as such, 9 “has the sole and absolute discretion to interpret the provisions of the [Disability Plan], make 10 findings of fact, determine the rights and status of participants and others under the [Disability Plan] 11 and decide disputes under the [Disability Plan].” Administrative Record (“AR”) 000264 (Summary 12 Plan Description at page 31); see also UMF No. 2. The Disability Plan further provides that “[t]he 13 Plan Administrator may delegate any of its duties or powers [and that] [t]o the extent permitted by 14 law, such interpretations, findings, determinations and decisions shall be final and conclusive on all 15 persons for all purposes of the [Disability Plan].” AR 000264.

16 Effective December 2008, AT&T Inc. contracted with a third party claims administrator, 17 Sedgewick Claims Management Services, Inc. (“Sedgewick”), to administer the Disability Plan and 18 “delegated fiduciary responsibilities, as defined by [ERISA]” to Sedgewick. AR 000262; UMF 19 Nos. 4, 6, 7. Thus, claims for Short-Term Disability (“STD”) benefits under the Disability Plan 20 must be made to Sedgewick, and Sedgewick has discretion to determine eligibility for STD benefits 21 under the Disability Plan. UMF Nos. 5, 8. The team of Sedgewick employees assigned to decide 22 claims for disability benefits under the Disability Plan is referred to as the AT&T Integrated 23 Disability Service Center (“IDSC”). UMF No. 9. Appeals and denials of benefit claims under the 24 Disability Plan are decided by Sedgewick’s Quality Review Unit (“QRU”). UMF No. 10.

25 Under the terms of the Disability Plan, eligibility for STD benefits requires that a 26 participant’s condition meet the following definition:

27 Disability or Disabled.

28 For STD purposes, means that due to illness (including pregnancy) or injury, you are absent from work and unable to perform the duties of your Customary Job, and you meet the other requirements contained in the Plan and this Program.

1 AR 000262 (Summary Plan Description at page 29); see also UMF No. 11. “Customary Job” is 2 defined as “the work activity that you were hired to regularly perform for the Employer and that 3 serves as your source of income from the Employer.” AR 000262 (Summary Plan Description at 4 page 29).

5 To obtain STD benefits under the Disability Plan, the claimant must file a claim with the 6 Claim Administrator, which “should contain all information requested on the forms and any 7 additional information requested by the Claims Administrator.” AR 00255 (Summary Plan 8 Description at page 22). The Summary Plan Description further provides as follows:

9 A claim will not be considered to be submitted to the Program until all required and 10 requested information is provided. All information should be provided as soon as practicable. . . .

11 In order to establish your Disability you must present credible, objective medical evidence.
12 The Claims Administrator also may appoint an independent Physician to examine you in order to verify your Disability.

13 While you are receiving STD, LTD or Supplemental LTD benefits under the Program, you 14 are required periodically to provide the Claims Administrator with supplemental medical 15 information from your Physician documenting your continued disability. You may also be required to submit to an independent medical examination(s) or a functional capacity examination.

16 It is your responsibility to provide the documentation supporting your claim on a timely 17 basis. If you fail to submit the documentation requested by the Claims Administrator, or if 18 you refuse to be examined by a Physician appointed by the Claims Administrator in order to verify your Disability or continued Disability, your claim will be denied and your STD, LTD and Supplemental LTD benefits will stop.

20 B. History of Plaintiff’s Claim for Benefits

21 Plaintiff Marcus May was hired on October 12, 2009 as a Retail Sales Consultant for AT&T 22 Mobility. UMF No. 14. As a Retail Sales Consultant, Plaintiff was responsible for providing 23 customer service, including answering questions for customers in the process of purchasing products 24 and services. AR 000133 (Job Description). The physical requirements of the job are described as 25 follows:

26 _____
27 <sup>2</sup>In the joint undisputed facts submitted by the parties, somewhat different language is quoted.
28 See UMF, No. 13 (“The Disability Plan provides that “[i]t is your responsibility to provide credible, objective medical evidence to the Claims Administrator whenever requested. If you fail to submit the documentation requested by the Claims Administrator . . . your claim will be denied . . .”). This language is purportedly found at AR 000262. However, the Court finds no such language on that page.

1           □ Ability to lift up to 25 pounds. □ Must be able to stand for long periods of time while 2 servicing customers.

3 AR 000133.<sup>3</sup>

4           On August 26, 2010, Plaintiff went on leave due to severe knee pain. UMF No. 17; AR 5 000067. On August 30, 2010, Plaintiff called his internist, Dr. Beth Schweitzer, at Fairmont 6 Hospital/Winton Wellness Center, part of Highland Hospital (hereinafter “Fairmount”), complaining 7 of “increasing pain in his” left knee. AR 00067. Plaintiff was advised to “rest and elevate [his] 8 leg.” AR 000067. An appointment was made for the following day. Id. The notes from that visit 9 state, in part, as follows:

10           Subjective:

11           Pt. is here on a drop in basis with c/o of left knee pain which is worse over past week. Felt 12 that knee ‘buckled’ about a week ago, says he can’t bend the knee or straighten it out...
13 walks with difficulty. Pt has hx of gout, previously took colchicine but says he has not taken 14 colchicine for a very long time (approx. 6 mo.) Taking ibuprofin 800 mg [ ] for pain ... Says 15 pain is better today. Works part time for AT&T, works as a salesman and is on his feet all 16 day at work . . .

17           Objective:

18           GEN: obese m., ambulates with difficulty

20           BJE: left knee with markedly decreased rom, mild swelling, no pinpoint tenderness to touch, 21 no warmth, no redness

22           . . .

23           Assessment:

24           Left Knee Pain, severe 25           Hx gout
26           HTN, fair control

27           Plan:

28           Tylenol [sic] with Codeine . . .
              X-ray, two views, left knee

<sup>3</sup>This information is contained in a single-page document found in the Administrative Record carrying the heading “Job Title: Retail Sales Consultant” and including a variety of information about that position. Presumably, the document (or at least, the information in it) was provided by AT&T Mobility and is an official document that accurately describes the nature of Plaintiff’s position and its physical requirements. The Court notes that the parties cite this document as evidence that supports UMF Nos. 15-16.

1 MRI referral for left knee.

2 Nutritionist Referral

3 Wt los discussed, encouraged, at length

4 Return to work slip, pt should not work for approx 2 weeks.

5 AR 00068.

6 On September 10, 2010, Plaintiff returned to Fairmount for a follow-up appointment. AR 7 00069. The report of that visit states, in part:

8 Subjective:

9 Pt is still having knee pain. He started taking motrin because other pain medication did not 10 help. He can walk a littler better but does not feel he is ready to work.

11 Id. The report notes that x-rays showed “tricompartamental arthritis left knee.” Id. Plaintiff was 12 referred to an orthopedist and instructed to schedule an MRI. Id.

13 On September 10, 2010, Dr. Schweitzer completed a Claim for Disability Insurance Benefits 14 – Doctor’s Certificate (“Doctor’s Certificate”) in support of Plaintiff’s disability claim. AR 000011, 15 AR 000070.<sup>4</sup> The Doctor’s Certificate is a form issued by the Employment Development 16 Department (“EDD”) of the State of California and was submitted to EDD. UMF 26. The form 17 describes Plaintiff’s diagnosis as “acute knee pain and arthritis.” AR 00070. The form also includes 18 a single line in which to state “Findings,” in which Dr. Schweitzer wrote: “Pt has pain and swelling 19 and decreased ROM.” Id. The return-to-work date indicated on the form was October 3, 2010. Id.

20 On September 13, 2010, IDSC sent Plaintiff a letter informing him that it had submitted a 21 claim for STD benefits on his behalf. UMF No. 18. Attached to the letter was a form to be 22 completed by Plaintiff’s physician, entitled “Initial Physician’s Statement,” as well as other forms, 23 which he was instructed must be submitted by September 21, 2010. AR 00053; UMF 21. The letter 24 cautioned that “[i]t is critical that your physician demonstrates by his/her observations and clinical 25 findings that you are unable to perform your work with or without accommodations.” Id.

26 On the same date, IDSC also issued a “Reported Disability Claim Notice” directed to the 27 attention of Plaintiff’s supervisor, Daniel S. Milanese. AR 51-52.

28 <sup>4</sup>The Doctor’s Certificate that Dr. Schweitzer completed on September 10 is similar – but not identical – to the Initial Physician’s Statement sent to Plaintiff on September 13. Compare AR 00070 (Claim for Disability Insurance Benefits – Doctor’s Certificate) with AR 00064 (Initial Physician Statement). The former is a form issued by the Employment Development Department (“EDD”) of the State of California and was submitted to EDD. UMF 26.

1           On September 14, 2010, IDSC Disability Specialist Dwight Dixon sent a request to Dr.
 2 Schweitzer’s office for medical information, including “[c]opies of office/chart notes from 8/26/10,” 3 “[c]opies of all operative reports, hospital summaries, and discharge notes,” “[c]opies of all medical 4 data (i.e. x-ray/MRI reports, lab results, etc.)” AR 46-47. On the same day, Mr. Dixon spoke to 5 Plaintiff about his claim. AR 0006. The following is an excerpt of Mr. Dixon’s notes of that 6 conversation:

7           introduce cm. . .

8           Dx, symptoms and/or complaints: severe 9 arthritis in his knee and can’t bend or extend 10 her [sic] knee

          State Disability filed? he has the form and is in the process of getting it completed.

          TWP: informed ee that at some point within the time period off of work, cm will attempt to return ee back to work under modified duties. By requesting ee’s functional limitations from their [sic] provider and offering any restrictions/ limitations to the department for accommodations.

Id.

          On September 14, 2010, Mr. Dixon also sent an email to Plaintiff’s manager, Daniel Milanese requesting information about Plaintiff’s STD claim, including a “detailed description” of Plaintiff’s job duties and the exertion level of Plaintiff’s position (ie., sedentary, light, medium or heavy). AR 0007. Mr. Dixon asked if Plaintiff’s department had “any accommodation for restrictions the employee may return to work with.” AR 0008.

1 Records of the August 30, 2010 telephone call and the August 31, 2010 and September 10, 2 2010 visits to Dr. Schweitzer, as well as the Doctor's Certificate (discussed above) were faxed to 3 IDSC on September 20, 2010. UMF Nos. 24-25. The Initial Physician's Statement form does not 4 appear to have been submitted to IDSC.<sup>5</sup>

5 On September 20, 2010, Mr. Dixon also received an email response from Plaintiff's 6 manager, Daniel Milanese. AR 0008-0009. Mr. Milanese described Plaintiff's job duties as 7 follows: "Assisting customers on the sales floor for the duration of his scheduled shift. Requires that 8 he is on his feet during this time, moving around the store." AR 0009. In response to Mr. Dixon's 9 question regarding possible accommodations, Mr. Milanese responded: "Chairs are not allowed on 10 the sales floor. . . .Employee must be able to walk around and stand on his feet during his shift." Id.

11 On September 21, 2010, IDSC sent Plaintiff's manager an email informing him that 12 Plaintiff's STD claim had been approved through October 3, 2010. AR 00071-00073. IDSC also 13 sent Plaintiff a letter informing him that his claim had been approved. AR 00074. The letter further 14 informed Plaintiff as follows:

15 In the event that you will not recover sufficiently to resume your job duties, with or without 16 reasonable accommodations, at the end of the approval period, updated medical 17 documentation including chart notes, diagnostic test results, hospital discharge summaries, etc. will need to be provided to AT&T Integrated Disability Services Center by 10/03/2010.

18 AR 00074.

19 On September 28, 2010, Mr. Dixon called Plaintiff and Dr. Schweitzer's office to remind 20 them that updated medical information would be required if Plaintiff sought to extend his STD 21 benefits beyond October 3, 2010. AR 00012. Mr. Dixon called Plaintiff and Dr. Schweitzer again
22 on Friday, October 1, 2010, to remind them that Plaintiff's STD benefits would expire soon if IDSC 23 did not receive updated medical information in support of Plaintiff's claim. AR 00013. Both 24 Plaintiff and Dr. Schweitzer informed Mr. Dixon that Plaintiff had an appointment to see Dr.
25 Schweitzer at 2 p.m. that afternoon. Id.

26 On Monday, October 4, 2010, Plaintiff did not return to work and IDSC did not receive any 27 further documentation, either from Dr. Schweitzer's office or from Plaintiff. AR 00015. At the end 28

<sup>5</sup>Defendant does not assert, however, that Plaintiff's claim was denied because his doctor failed to submit the proper form.

1 of the day, Mr. Dixon called Plaintiff to inquire whether he would be submitting updated medical 2 records. Id. Plaintiff told Mr. Dixon that he had been having a bad day and hadn't been able to bend 3 his knee at all and so had been unable to leave the house but that he had a form from his doctor that 4 he would fax to IDSC the next day, with a return to work date of October 10, 2010. Id.

5 The next day, Plaintiff faxed to IDSC a form entitled Certification of Treatment/Return to 6 Work, completed by Leslie Reynolds, PA. AR 00079.<sup>6</sup> The form indicated that Plaintiff had 7 received treatment on October 1, 2010 and stated that Plaintiff could return to work on October 10, 8 2010 with the following restrictions: "working 4 hrs a day . . . may need chair to sit." Id. Although 9 the Certification of Treatment form did not specify the treatment sought on October 1, 2010, Mr.
10 Dixon understood that this notation referred to the visit to Dr. Schweitzer's office the previous 11 Friday. AR 00017. Accordingly, Mr. Dixon contacted Dr. Schweitzer's office on October 14, 2010 12 to request the records from that visit. Id.

13 On October 14, 2010, Plaintiff faxed to IDSC a form completed by Dr. Schweitzer on 14 October 8, 2010 entitled "Physician's Supplementary Certificate." AR 00085. The form stated that 15 Plaintiff was last seen on October 8, 2010 and listed his diagnosis as "Gout/knee pain." Id. In 16 response to the request that the doctor "[d]escribe how the patient's present condition or impairment 17 prevents him or her from returning to regular and customary work," Dr. Schweitzer wrote "still 18 having pain in [left] knee – referred to orthopedic." Id. Dr. Schweitzer further stated that the factor 19 "disabling the patient longer than previously estimated" was that "pt. has not completely resolved 20 knee pain." Id. Dr. Schweitzer estimated Plaintiff could return to work on November 1, 2010. Id.

21 On October 19, 2010, at 6:40 pm, Mr. Dixon contacted Dr. Schweitzer's office to set up a 22 "PA review on 10/21/10 or 10/22/10." AR 00019. The assistant who took the call, Catalina, told 23 Mr. Dixon that she didn't have Plaintiff's chart available and was just leaving the office so she 24 would have to call back the next day. Id. Mr. Dixon called back the next day and spoke to Catalina 25 again. AR 00020. Catalina informed Mr. Dixon that Dr. Schweitzer would have to call him back to 26 set up PA review appointment. Id. Dr. Schweitzer did not return Mr. Dixon's call.

27 28 <sup>6</sup>Mr. Dixon incorrectly referred to the provider as "Leslie English" in his notes, apparently confusing the notation on the form referring to the patient's primary language with the provider's name.
AR 00079.

1 On October 20, 2010, IDSDC referred Plaintiff's claim to IPA Dr. David L. Hinkamp, Board 2 Certified Occupation/Environmental Medicine, for further review of Plaintiff's functional abilities.
3 UMF No. 43. Dr. Hinkamp was asked whether there were any objective findings that prevented 4 Plaintiff from performing his job duties of talking, typing, standing, walking and lifting up to 25 5 pounds. AR 00020. He was also asked whether Plaintiff could return to work with modifications 6 and if so, what restrictions and limitations would be required. Id.

7 On October 22, 2010, Dr. Hinkamp called Dr. Schweitzer's office and left a recorded 8 message. AR 00021.<sup>7</sup>

9 On October 25, 2010, Dr. Hinkamp reviewed the records from Dr. Schweitzer's office and 10 the x-ray results.<sup>8</sup> He then offered the following "rationale":

11 The medical notes document that the EE had gout, and knee pain. On 9/10/10, the x-ray 12 showed tricompartmental arthritis of the left knee. The EE was treated for gout. On 13 10/08/10, the say [sic] that the EE may RTW on 10/10/10 – working 4 hrs a day with may 14 need chair to sit until his next appointment, on 10/25/10. There is a note that the EE is being 15 referred to orthopedics.

16 There are no objective findings or limitations of activities outside of work noted. There are 17 no orders for bedrest. I was unable to speak with Dr. Schweitzer to obtain further 18 information.

19 Answer to CM questions:

20 1. Are there any objective findings that prevent the EE from performing their [sic] job 21 duties of talking, typing, standing, walking, and lifting up to 25 pounds?

22 Currently, there are insufficient objective findings to prevent the EE from performing their 23 job duties of talking, typing, standing, walking, and lifting up to 25 pounds.

24 2. If so, can they RTW under modifications?

25 No modifications are supported by the currently available objective medical findings.

26 3. What are the restrictions and durations?

27 N/A

28 4. Does the treatment provider agree with the restrictions?

Unknown.

<sup>8</sup>It is unclear whether Dr. Hinkamp reviewed the underlying medical records or rather, merely reviewed the JURIS notes maintained by IDSC in connection with Plaintiff's claim. The Court notes that Dr. Hinkamp, like Mr. Dixon, referred to treatment on October 1, 2010 by Leslie "English" rather than Leslie Reynolds. AR 00022.

1 AR 00023-00024.

2 In the meantime, on October 22, 2010, Leslie Reynolds, of Dr. Schweitzer's office, had 3 returned Dr. Kinkamp's call (of the same day) and spoken to a different doctor, Dr. Inns.<sup>9</sup> AR 4 00025. The notation from that telephone call, which was entered into the JURIS notes maintained 5 by IDSC on October 26, 2010, states, in part, as follows:

6 Ms. Reynolds stated that the patient is off work and was last seen on 10/8/10 with 7 symptoms/findings including knee pain. They are still working up the knee pain as they are 8 awaiting an MRI to give additional diagnostic information. As such, the expected return to work date is currently unknown. She also notes that they have cleared the patient for modified duty, but apparently, the employer was unable to accommodate that.

9 Id. Apparently, Dr. Hinkamp was unaware of this conversation when he concluded on October 25, 10 2010 that Plaintiff did not qualify for STD benefits. However, on October 26, 2010, Dr. Hinkamp 11 wrote that "[t]his additional information does not provide additional objective medical findings that 12 would support changes to the opinions expressed in the Physician's Advisor Review of 10/22/10."

13 Id.

14 On November 2, 2010, Mr. Dixon, on behalf of the Disability Plan, sent Plaintiff a letter 15 informing him that his claim for continued STD benefits had been denied effective October 4, 2010.
 16 AR 00087-00088. The letter stated the following reasons for the denial:

17 Our determination to deny benefits is based on a review of the medical documentation 18 provided by Dr. Schweitzer on 10/05/2010<sup>10</sup> and 10/14/2010<sup>11</sup> consisting of a Physician's 19 statement and work note. According to the medical information, you were being treated for 20 left knee pain and recommended to return to work with restrictions of working 4 hours per day and the availability of a chair as needed to sit down. Unfortunately, there were no observable medical findings provided to support your disability or the need for restricted or light duty.

21 In order to help the AT&T Integrated Disability Service Center understand how your 22 condition may have caused an inability to function in your occupation the AT&T Integrated Disability Service Center sent your file to a Physician Advisor for review on 10/20/2010.
 23 The Physician Advisor called Dr. Schweitzer on 10/22/2010 to discuss the medical

24 <sup>9</sup>Although it is unclear why the call was taken by a different doctor, Defendant does not dispute 25 that the call from Ms. Reynolds was in response to Dr. Hinkamp's telephone message. See Motion at 26 9 ("Although Dr. Schweitzer never returned Dr. Hinkamp's telephone call, Ms. Reynolds from Dr.
 Schweitzer's office called him.")

27 <sup>10</sup>The only medical documentation reflected in the JURIS notes that was received on 10/05/10 28 is the Certification of Treatment/Return to Work form completed by Leslie Reynolds on October 1, 2010. See AR 00016, 00078-00079.

<sup>11</sup>Based on the JURIS notes, this appears to be a reference to the "Physician's Supplemental Certificate" completed by Dr. Schweitzer on October 8, 2010. See AR 00018, 00084-00085.

1 information submitted, but Dr. Schweitzer was not available at the time. The Physician 2 Advisor left a message for a return call, which was returned by Leslie Reynolds, PA on 3 10/22/2010. Leslie advised that you were last seen on 10/08/2010 and they were still 4 working up your knee pain. Additionally, they were awaiting an MRI to give additional 5 diagnostic information. As such, your expected return to work date was unknown. The 6 Physician Advisor reviewed the available medical information and agreed that the clinical 7 information lacked clear findings that prevented you from performing the essential functions 8 of your occupation.

9 AR 00087- 00088. The letter also advised Plaintiff that he had the right to appeal the decision and 10 included an appeal form and instructions for filing an appeal. AR 00088-00094. The appeal form 11 instructed that any new medical information should be submitted “as soon as reasonably possible.”
12 AR 00090.

13 On November 5, 2010, Plaintiff called IDSC to advise that he had additional medical 14 documentation that he planned to submit. UMF No. 48. On November 8, 2010, Plaintiff faxed to 15 IDSC the following documents: 1) a letter from Plaintiff to IDSC asking it to correct an error 16 regarding the amount of Plaintiff’s state disability payments; 2) proof of state disability income 17 earnings; 3) a second letter from Plaintiff explaining that an MRI had recently been performed and 18 showed that he had a “valid disability” and was “unable to stand the eight hour shifts” that were 19 required for his position; 4) an MRI report dated November 3, 2010; and 5) a Certificate of 20 Treatment/Return to Work form dated November 5, 2010, completed by Leslie Reynolds, PA, 21 stating that Plaintiff’s return to work date was February 1, 2011 (“the November 5 Return-to-Work 22 Form”). UMF No. 48, AR 00103 -00109.

23 The November 3, 2010 MRI report stated, in part, as follows:

24 FINDINGS

25 There is intrasubstance signal abnormality in the posterior horn and body of the medial 26 meniscus, without evidence of a discrete tear. The medial collateral ligament is intact. There 27 is mild medial compartment arthrosis with subchondral edema in the anterior medial tibial 28 plateau. The body of the medial meniscus is mildly extruded.

The anterior cruciate ligament is increased in signal with some enlargement near the femoral attachment, compatible with mucinous degeneration. Anterior cruciate ligament sprain or partial disruption cannot entirely be excluded. There is evidence of some contiguity of fibers. Complete anterior cruciate ligament disruption is not demonstrated. The posterior cruciate ligament is slightly heterogeneous in signal and mildly thickened but intact.

The lateral meniscus is intact. There is some enlargement and increased signal in the posterior horn lateral meniscal roof, compatible with intrameniscal degeneration and early cyst formation. The lateral collateral ligament and popliteus tendon appear normal. The iliotibial band is unremarkable.

1 There is moderate to severe femeropatellar arthrosis with full thickness chondral loss in the 2 lateral patellar facet and patellar apex. Mild subcortical edema is present in the lateral facet.
 3 Mild generalized chondral thinning and irregularity is present in the trochlear groove. The 4 extensor mechanism is intact. A small to moderate joint effusion is present with evidence of 5 mild synovitis.

4 IMPRESSION

- 5 1. Increased signal and thickening of the anterior cruciate ligament, compatible with 6 mucinous degeneration or partial anterior cruciate ligament disruption. No evidence 7 of complete anterior cruciate ligament disruption. Correlate with clinical findings.
- 8 2. Mild thickening and increased signal in the posterior cruciate ligament, consistent 9 with low-grade partial disruption.
- 10 3. Femeropatellar arthrosis with grade IV chondrosis of the lateral patellar facet and 11 patellar apex and grade II chondrosis of the trochlear groove.
- 12 4. Joint effusion with evidence of synovitis.

10 AR 000107-000108. The report was signed by Doctor Ravi Alagappan. AR 000108.

11 On November 10, 2010, Plaintiff faxed an appeal form to IDSC's Quality Review Unit 12 ("QRU"). UMF No. 50. On the form, Plaintiff stated that the reason for his appeal was that he was 13 "unable to stand for 8 hours a day which my current position requires." AR 000110.

14 On November 11, 2011, Mr. Dixon sent Plaintiff an "update," informing Plaintiff that IDSC 15 had received the November 5 Return to Work Form completed by Leslie Reynolds on November 7, 16 after it had denied Plaintiff's continued STD benefits claim. AR 00016. The letter stated that IDSC 17 had reviewed this addition form "as a courtesy" but that it did "provide clinical evidence to support 18 disability" from 10/04/2010 through Plaintiff's return-to-work date and did "not alter" IDSC's 19 previous denial. Id. The letter made no mention of the MRI results. Included with the November 20 11, 2010 denial letter was another copy of the QRU appeal form. UMF No. 53.

21 On November 16, 2010, IDSC sent Plaintiff a letter acknowledging his appeal. AR 000125.
 22 The letter quoted the definition of "total disability" for STD benefits (quoted above) and stated that 23 "[m]edical records including chart notes, diagnostic tests, and hospital summaries, relevant to this 24 absence should be submitted regardless of the length of the disability." Id. On the same date, 25 Appeals Specialist Deborah Patterson called Plaintiff to discuss the appeal process. UMF No. 56;
 26 AR 00032.

27 On November 29, 2010, Plaintiff provided IDSC with additional medical records. UMF No.
 28 60; AR 00127-00130. First, Plaintiff provided a "Referral Form for Outside Medical Services" from Alameda County Medical Center dated November 23, 2010, requesting a hinged knee brace to treat

1 Plaintiff's "ligamentous injury." AR 000128. Second, Plaintiff provided a "Treatment 2 Authorization Form" for the hinged knee brace, signed by Dr. Solares. AR 000129. Third, Plaintiff 3 provided a Certification of Treatment/Return to Work form dated 11/23/2010 ("the November 23, 4 2010 Return-to-Work Form"). AR 000130. This form stated that Plaintiff had been diagnosed with 5 "ligamentous injury" and that he was expected to be able to return to work in March 2011 with the 6 following limitations: "may not stand > 1 hr without break, if prolonged standing required, needs 7 seated assistance." Id. Finally, Plaintiff provided a note from Dr. Shah, of Laurence Orthopedics, 8 indicating that Plaintiff was seen on November 23, 2011 for a hinged knee brace. AR 000126.

9 On December 7, 2010, the QRU referred Plaintiff's claim to Dr. William C. Andrews Jr., 10 Board Certified in Orthopedic surgery, for an independent review. UMF No. 62. Dr. Andrews 11 reviewed the IDSC case notes, Plaintiff's job description, and records (including the MRI findings) 12 from AIC Fairmount/Winton, Alameda County Medical Center, Dr. Schweitzer, Leslie Reynolds, 13 Laurence Orthopedic and Dr. Alagappan. AR 00137. Dr. Andrews left voicemail messages with the 14 office of Dr. Schweitzer and Leslie Reynolds and Drs. Solares and Shah. Id. In both, he stated that 15 if the calls were not returned within 24 hours, the doctors' input would not be considered in Dr.
16 Andrews' report. Id. As to all of the providers, Dr. Andrews' report states that "a call back was not 17 received within 24 hours." Id.

18 Dr. Andrews concluded that Plaintiff was not disabled from his regular job as of October 4, 19 2010 and offered the following "rationale" in support of his conclusion:

20 Mr. May has a stretch-type injury to his ACL and the ACL by MRI is intact. He also has 21 some patellofemoral arthrosis. Patient has subjective complaints of left knee pain. MRI does 22 not demonstrate instability and no significant damage in his knee other than chronic arthritis 23 It should be noted there are no office notes or comprehensive exams with clinical findings 24 available for the period of disability being reviewed. Based on the documentation, it would 25 certainly be reasonable for him to work in his regular unrestricted job, which indicates he 26 has a 25-pound lifting capacity and standing for long periods of time. There is nothing about 27 the MRI findings that would preclude that. Therefore, from an orthopedic perspective 28 documentation does not support the employee to be disabled from his regular job as of 10/04/10 through present.

26 AR 000139.

27 On December 10, 2010, Deborah Patterson, on behalf of the Disability Plan, sent Plaintiff a 28 letter informing him that his appeal had been denied. AR 000146-000147. The letter cited the 1 conclusions of Dr. Andrews that the “medical information did not support that [Plaintiff was] 2 disabled from [his] regular job from October 4, 2010 through present.” AR 000147.

3 III. THE MOTIONS

4 A. Defendant’s Summary Judgment Motion

5 Defendant asserts that it is entitled to summary judgment because the applicable standard of 6 review is abuse of discretion and here there has been no abuse of discretion. Defendant AT&T 7 Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1’s Motion for Summary Judgment (“Defendant’s Motion”) at 14. First, 8 Defendant contends that it is Plaintiff’s burden to prove his entitlement to continued Plan benefits; 9 this burden does not shift simply because the Plan initially granted benefits. Id. at 15. According to 10 Defendant, Plaintiff failed to meet this burden because, although there was evidence that Plaintiff 11 needed a knee brace and physical therapy and the MRI showed some thickening of the ACL, “there 12 was no tear.” Id. at 16. Further, Defendant contends, “no examination or test results were provided 13 to support the severity of [Plaintiff’s] condition.” Id. Therefore, Defendant argues, Sedgewick 14 reasonably concluded that “Plaintiff’s knee pain and stretch-type injury to his ACL did not rise to 15 the level of rendering him unable to work as a Retail Sales Consultant.” Id.

16 Second, Defendant contends that under the abuse of discretion standard, the claim 17 administrator’s findings must be upheld unless they are clearly erroneous. Id. Thus, a court may 18 overturn the administrator’s decision only where it has a “definite and firm conviction that a mistake 19 has been committed.” Id. (quoting Concrete Pipe & Products of Cal. In. v. Construction Laborers 20 Pension Trust for Southern Cal., 508 U.S. 602, 623 (1993)). Here, Defendant asserts, that standard 21 is not met because its decision was supported by substantial evidence in the administrative record, 22 the decision does not conflict with the plain language of the disability plan and Sedgewick provided 23 a detailed explanation of its decision. Id. at 17. Defendant points to Dr. Andrews’ conclusion “that 24 the MRI findings established that there was no tear to Plaintiff’s knee, and that he did not require 25 surgery, but instead only needed a knee brace.” Id. Defendant further cited Dr. Andrews’ opinion 26 that “there was no significant damage to Plaintiff’s knee, other than arthritis, and that Plaintiff’s 27 inability to work was based solely on his subjective pain.” Id. at 17. In addition, Defendant notes 28 that Dr. Solares and Ms. Reynolds “both agreed that Plaintiff could return to his regular job with 1 restrictions that Plaintiff could work no more than 4 hours a day, and/or that he may need a chair to 2 sit, and/or that he could not stand more than 1 hour at a time without a break.” Id.

3 Finally, Defendant contends that “[e]ven if, arguendo, Plaintiff’s treating physicians had a 4 contrary view to the QRU and/or Dr. Andrews of Plaintiff’s condition, Sedgewick’s decision to 5 uphold the denial of further STD benefits was not arbitrary and capricious because the plan 6 administrator is not required to give special deference to a participant’s doctor’s opinions.” Id. at 7 19. Because Dr. Schweitzer’s opinion was conclusory and was based on Plaintiff’s subjective 8 complaints of pain rather than examinations or clinical findings, Defendant asserts, the administrator 9 was not required to adopt Dr. Schweitzer’s opinion. In contrast, Defendant contends, the opinion of 10 Dr. Andrews was supported by the medical documents because “Plaintiff’s MRI report showed no 11 ligament tears or substantial damage to his knee, and not one of his doctors recommended surgery.”
12 Id.

13 In support of Defendant’s Motion, Defendant filed two declarations: 1) Declaration of Susan 14 Hagestad in Support of Defendant AT&T Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1’s Motion for Summary
15 Judgment (“Hagestad Decl.”); and 2) Declaration of John D. Adkins in Support of Defendant AT&T 16 Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1’s Motion for Summary Judgment (“Adkins Decl.”). In addition, in 17 support of its Reply, Defendant filed the Supplemental Declaration of Susan Hagestad in Support of 18 Defendant AT&T Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1’s Motion for Summary Judgment (“Supp. Hagestad 19 Decl.”).

20 In her opening declaration, Ms. Hagestad states that she is an employee of Sedgwick and 21 holds the position of Manager of Total Performance. Hagestad Decl., ¶ 1. She goes on to 22 address the relationship between Sedgwick and the Disability Plan and describe the claims process 23 administered under the Disability Plan. Id., ¶¶ 3-11, 13-14. The remainder of the declaration 24 summarizes the administrative record in this case. In her supplemental declaration, Ms. Hagestad 25 addresses the process by which Independent Physician Advisors (“IPAs”) are retained by Sedgwick.
26 According to Ms. Hagestad, the IPAs are employed by third party vendors, and Sedgwick does not 27 have any role in selecting the individual medical IPA who reviews a particular disability case. Supp.
28 Segwick Decl., ¶ 2. Ms. Hagerstad further states that “[n]o Sedgwick employee receives monetary, or any other type of, incentive from AT&T Inc., nor does Segwick have any type of target or goal

1 for the number of disability claims to approve and/or deny.” Id., ¶ 3. The third declaration, by 2 AT&T Services, Inc. Senior Benefits Analyst John Adkins, provides an overview of the Disability 3 Plan and the Umbrella Plan, as well as Sedgwick’s role in the administration of the Disability Plan.

4 B. Plaintiff’s Summary Judgment Motion

5 Plaintiff seeks summary judgment reversing the denial of benefits on the grounds that he 6 could not stand for eight hours, which was a required duty, and he had submitted his treating 7 physician’s reports verifying his knee injury, disease and physical limitations. Plaintiff’s Motion for 8 Judgment on the Administrative Record; FRCP Rule 65 (“Plaintiff’s Motion”) at 4. According to 9 Plaintiff, “[h]aving never examined Mr. May (although the policy allowed for exams), defendant 10 simply disagreed with the treating physicians, and arbitrarily substituted their own consultants’ 11 subjective determination of the degree of plaintiff’s knee injury and pain instead of the findings and 12 conclusions of plaintiff’s treating physicians. Id.

13 As a preliminary matter, Plaintiff contends that the abuse of discretion standard should be 14 applied with heightened scrutiny because Sedgwick, although a third party administrator, has a 15 financial conflict of interest in light of “the strict performance standards imposed by the Plan 16 severely limiting denials to be reversed on appeal.” Id. at 5. Plaintiff has not offered any evidence 17 in support of this contention, instead stating that “discovery responses marked ‘Confidential’ will be 18 available to the Court at argument.” Id. Plaintiff also asserts that the value of the financial 19 arrangement between the medical group consultants and Sedgwick creates a “financial incentive for 20 the medical consulting group to deliver medical opinions in line with a pre-determined denial of 21 benefits.” Id. Plaintiff promises to offer at the hearing discovery marked “For Attorneys Eyes 22 Only” in support of this position. Id.

23 Plaintiff further contends that the denial of benefits was an abuse of discretion because it was 24 based on a conclusory determination of lack of objective medical evidence, with no analysis of the 25 MRI results showing knee injury and disease and no explanation of how the treating physicians 26 reached erroneous conclusions about Plaintiff’s disability. Id. at 8-9. “A detailed analysis of the 27 medical records combined with an in office examination is what should have been the basis for a 28 disability decision, not one remote medical records review by a medical group deriving a large income from services to Sedgwick.” Id. at 9. Plaintiff further notes that “Mr. May, uninsured, had

1 all medical treatment through Alameda County Medical Services with no financial incentive 2 whatsoever to appease Mr. May, and given a crushing work load, certainly no time to respond to 3 frequent requests of the defendant for immediate explanations and justifications.” Id.

4 Plaintiff requests an award of STD benefits from the date of denial for the full 22-week 5 period for which short term disability benefits are available under the Disability Plan. Id. at 18.
6 Should the Court enter judgment in his favor and award continued STD benefits, Plaintiff will then 7 file an application for long term disability benefits in accordance with the Disability Plan 8 requirements. Id. Plaintiff also requests an award of fees and costs under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(g), 9 arguing that the Court should exercise its discretion to award fees under this section because 10 Defendant acted arbitrarily in denying Plaintiff’s request for continued STD benefits. Id. at 19.

11 In support of his motion, Plaintiff filed his own declaration. Declaration of Marcus May in 12 Support of Plaintiff’s Motion for Summary Judgment; FRCP 56 (“May Decl.”). In his declaration, 13 Plaintiff summarizes the history of his medical condition and of his claim for disability benefits. He 14 states, inter alia, that when he attempted to return to work after his doctor told him he could try to 15 return to work with some restrictions, he was told by AT&T that it would not allow him to return to 16 work with restrictions and would not allow him to sit in a chair while working. May Decl., ¶ 6. He 17 also states that he was terminated from his position when he failed to return to work after Sedgewick 18 determined that Plaintiff could stand for his entire eight-hour shift. Id., ¶¶ 6-7. Finally, Plaintiff 19 states that he suffered a stroke in November 2011 and has been unable to rehabilitate his knee as a 20 result. Id., ¶ 9.

21 C. Defendant’s Motion to Strike

22 Defendant brings a motion to strike the May Declaration, asserting that the declaration 23 should be stricken because it is not part of the administrative record. Docket No. 42 at 3. Defendant 24 further contends that to the extent that the May Declaration states that Plaintiff suffered a stroke in 25 November 2011, is irrelevant and also more prejudicial than probative. Id. at 3-4.

26 D. Plaintiff’s Opposition to Defendant’s Summary Judgment Motion

27 In his response to Defendant’s Summary Judgment Motion, Plaintiff reiterates his position 28 that a heightened scrutiny application of the abuse of discretion standard should be applied.

1 Plaintiff's Opposition at 1. Even if no heightened scrutiny is applied, however, Defendant's denial 2 should be reversed because it was arbitrary and unreasonable, Plaintiff contends. Id.

3 In response to Defendant's motion to strike the May Declaration, Plaintiff points to the 4 Hagestad and Adkins declarations filed by Defendant, arguing that if his declaration is stricken, so 5 too should Defendant's declarations, which are also outside of the administrative record. Plaintiff's 6 Opposition at 10.

7 E. Defendant's Opposition to Plaintiff's Summary Judgment Motion

8 In its Opposition to Plaintiff's motion, Defendant rejects Plaintiff's contention that the denial 9 of STD benefits should be reviewed with heightened scrutiny, pointing out that Plaintiff has offered 10 no admissible evidence that establishes a conflict of interest. Defendant's Opposition at 14.
11 Defendant also cites decisions in this district in which courts have rejected the same argument. Id. at 12 15 (citing Burrows v. AT&T Umbrella Benefit Plan No. 1, 2011 WL 996748, at *2-3 (N.D. Cal. Mar.
13 21, 2011); Edwards v. AT&T Disability Income Plan, 2009 WL 650255, at *11 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 11, 14 2009)). Finally, Defendant reiterates the arguments its motion, namely, that the administrator did 15 not abuse its discretion in denying continued STD benefits.

16 IV. ANALYSIS

17 A. Applicable Standard of Review

18 "A denial of benefits challenged under [29 U.S.C.] § 1132(a)(1)(B) is to be reviewed under a 19 de novo standard unless the benefit Plan gives the administrator or fiduciary discretionary authority 20 to determine eligibility for benefits or to construe the terms of the Plan." Firestone Tire and Rubber 21 Company v. Bruch, 489 US 101, 115 (1989). Where the administrator has been granted 22 discretionary authority, a denial of benefits is reviewed for an abuse of discretion. Id. In applying 23 the abuse of discretion standard, courts should take into account any conflict interest on the part of 24 the plan administrator. Abatie v. Alta Health & Life Ins. Co., 458 F.3d 955, 965 (9th Cir. 2006).
25 "[A]n insurer that acts as both the plan administrator and the funding source for benefits operates 26 under what may be termed a structural conflict of interest." Id. (citing Tremain v. Bell Indus., Inc., 27 196 F.3d 970, 976 (9th Cir.1999)). Because a structural conflict gives the plan administrator an 28 incentive to pay as little as possible in benefits, the Ninth Circuit has held that the court should apply

1 the abuse of discretion standard in a manner that is “informed by the nature, extent, and effect on the 2 decision-making process of any conflict of interest that may appear in the record.” Id. at 967.

3 As stated above, under the Disability Plan, AT&T Inc. is the Plan Administrator and has 4 “sole and absolute discretion to interpret the provisions of the [Disability Plan], make findings of 5 fact, determine the rights and status of participants and others under the [Disability Plan], and decide 6 disputes under the [Disability Plan]. Further, the “Plan Administrator may delegate any of its duties 7 or powers.” As it is undisputed that AT&T Inc. has delegated its authority to make benefits 8 determinations under the Disability Plan to Sedgewick, the Court reviews the denial of Plaintiff’s 9 benefits for an abuse of discretion.

10 The Court further finds no conflict of interest has been established that affects its application 11 of the abuse of discretion standard under Abatie.

12 B. Abuse of Discretion Standard

13 When reviewing for abuse of discretion, the Court “cannot substitute [its] judgment for the 14 administrator’s ... [and] can set aside the administrator’s discretionary determination only when it is 15 arbitrary and capricious.” Jordan v. Northrop Grumman Welfare Benefit Plan, 370 F.3d 869, 875 16 (9th Cir.2004), overruled on other grounds by Abatie, 458 F.3d at 969. The Supreme Court has 17 explained that “[a]pplying a deferential standard of review does not mean that the plan administrator 18 will prevail on the merits [but rather] . . . means only that the plan administrator’s interpretation of 19 the plan “will not be disturbed if reasonable.” Conkright v. Frommert, – U.S. –, 130 S.Ct. 1640, 20 1651 (2010) (citation omitted). “An ERISA administrator abuses its discretion only if it (1) renders 21 a decision without explanation, (2) construes provisions of the plan in a way that conflicts with the 22 plain language of the plan or (3) relies on clearly erroneous findings of fact.” Boyd v. Bert Bell/Pete 23 Rozelle N.F.L. Ret. Plan, 410 F.3d 1173, 1178 (9th Cir.2005). A court may find clear error “when 24 the reviewing court is left with the definite and firm conviction that a mistake has been committed.” 25 Linich v. Broadspire Services, Inc., 2009 WL 775471, at * 2 (D. Ariz. March 23, 2009) (quoting 26 Concrete Pipe & Prods. of Cal., Inc. v. Constr. Laborers Pension Trust for S. Cal., 508 U.S. 602 27 (1993)). In Salomaa v. Honda Long Term Disability Plan, the Ninth Circuit held that in determining 28 whether this standard is met, the court should consider “whether application of a correct legal standard was ‘1) illogical, 2) implausible, or 3) without support in inferences that may be drawn

1 from the facts in the record.” 642 F.3d 666, 676 (quoting United States v. Hinkson, 585 F.3d 1247, 2 1262 (9th Cir. 2009)).

3 C. Objections

4 Defendant brings a Motion to Strike the Declaration of Marcus May in Support of Plaintiff’s 5 Motion for Summary Judgment (“Motion to Strike”), objecting to the May Declaration on the 6 ground that the Court may consider only documents contained in the administrative record in 7 deciding whether the denial of benefits constituted an abuse of discretion. See Docket No. 42.
8 Plaintiff, in turn, objects to the Hagestad and Adkins declarations on the same grounds.

9 The Court GRANTS the Motion to Strike. The May Declaration offers factual assertions 10 relating to the question of whether the Plan abused its discretion in denying benefits, an inquiry that 11 is limited to the administrative record. See Kludka v. Qwest Disability Plan, 2012 WL 1681983, at 12 *14 (D.Ariz. May 14, 2012) (“Ordinarily, ‘[j]udicial review of an ERISA plan administrator’s 13 decision on the merits is limited to the administrative record’”) (quoting Montour v. Hartford Life & 14 Acc. Ins. Co., 588 F.3d 623, 632 (9th Cir. 2009)). Similarly, the Court sustains Plaintiff’s objections 15 to the portion of the Hagestad Declaration that summarizes the administrative record, that is ¶¶ 16-16 36 of that declaration.

17 Plaintiff’s objection is OVERRULED as to the remaining portions of the Hagestad 18 Declaration and as to the Adkins Declaration, which address the question of whether there is a 19 potential conflict of interest that may have implications for the applicable standard of review.
20 Plaintiff has cited no authority suggesting that the Court may not consider evidence outside of the 21 administrative record on these matters. To the contrary, courts have recognized that evidence 22 outside of the administrative record may be required to decide what level of scrutiny to apply to a 23 plan’s denial of benefits under ERISA where, as here, there is an alleged conflict of interest. See 24 Pacific Shores Hosp. v. United Behavioral Health, 2012 WL 1123870, at *2 (C.D.Cal., April 2, 25 2012) (“in this Circuit discovery beyond the administrative record is contemplated in establishing 26 the nature, extent, and effect on the decision-making process of a conflict of interest) (citing Abatie 27 v. Alta Health & Life Ins. Co., 458 F.3d 955 (9th Cir.2006)).

28

1           D.       Whether IDSC Abused its Discretion in Terminating Plaintiff’s Benefits

2           Having reviewed the entire administrative record in this case, the Court finds that the 3 termination of Plaintiff’s benefits was clearly erroneous because it was illogical and without support 4 in inferences that may be drawn from facts in the record. The Court reaches this conclusion 5 because: 1) Plaintiff was initially found to be disabled on the basis of Dr. Schweitzer’s reports 6 documenting Plaintiff’s symptoms associated with knee pain, and the updated medical records 7 reflect that Plaintiff’s symptoms remained unchanged; 2) the only physician who conducted a paper 8 review as part of the appeals process, Dr. Andrews, did not meaningfully address Plaintiff’s 9 subjective complaints of pain and did not explain why he rejected the findings of the physicians who 10 had examined Plaintiff that Plaintiff’s pain was disabling; 3) in the face of what IDSC considered to 11 insufficient clinical findings supporting the conclusions of Plaintiff’s treating physicians, IDSC did 12 not conduct its own examination, even though the Disability Plan allowed for such an exam.

13                               1.       It Was Illogical to Deny Continued STD Benefits Where the Medical 14 Evidence Showed No Change in Plaintiff’s Condition

15           As discussed above, IDSC initially approved Plaintiff’s STD benefits based on: 1) 16 Schweitzer’s diagnosis of arthritis in Plaintiff’s left knee, accompanied by “severe” pain and 17 “markedly decreased [range of motion],” see AR 00068-00070; and 2) an x-ray revealing 18 “tricompartamental arthritis,” AR 00069.

19           The updated medical records do not reflect any significant change in Plaintiff’s symptoms as 20 of October 4, 2010. To the contrary, Dr. Schweitzer and Leslie Reynolds reported that Plaintiff 21 continued to experience knee pain and Reynolds stated Plaintiff could work only 4 hour shifts and 22 might need a chair – an accommodation that was not available. AR 00079, 00085. In addition, a 23 subsequent MRI supported the diagnosis of arthritis in Plaintiff’s left knee (finding “[f]emoropatellar 24 arthrosis with grade IV chondrosis of the lateral patellar facet and patellar apex and grade II 25 chondrosis of the trochlear groove”). AR 000113. The MRI also revealed “[i]ncreased signal and 26 thickening of the antereror cruciate ligament, compatible with mucinous degeneration or partial 27 anterior cruciate ligament disruption” and “[m]ild thickening and increased signal in the posterior 28 cruciate ligament, consistent with low-grade partial disruption.” AR 000113. Dr. Shah prescribed a hinged knee brace for Plaintiff’s “ligamentous knee injury,” AR 000128, and Dr. Solares found

1 that Plaintiff could not stand for more than an hour and would need “seated assistance” if he were 2 required to stand for prolonged periods. AS 000130. In short, none of the updated medical records 3 offer any reasonable basis for concluding that Plaintiff’s condition had improved as compared to the 4 initial period of STD benefits.

5 To the extent the updated medical records document essentially the same disabling 6 symptoms that the Plan previously found to be disabling, the Plan’s termination of Plaintiff’s 7 benefits was illogical and, in combination with the additional considerations discussed below, 8 supports a finding of clear error. See Caesar v. Hartford Life and Acc. Ins. Co., 2012 WL 1118613
 9 (6th Cir. Jan. 13, 2012) (holding that plan administrator acted arbitrarily in cutting off benefits that it 10 had been paying previously where there was “no evidence that [the claimant’s] condition had 11 improved since the time that it found her disabled”).

12 2. The Denial was Arbitrary Because Dr. Andrews did not Explain Why he 13 Rejected the Findings of the Physicians who had Examined Plaintiff

14 The plan administrator based its denial of Plaintiff’s appeal on a paper review of the record 15 by Dr. William Andrews. The review is cursory, at best. While acknowledging Plaintiff’s 16 “subjective complaints of left knee pain,” and that the MRI revealed arthritis in Plaintiff’s left knee, 17 Dr. Andrews did not explain why he disagreed with the conclusions of all of the physicians and care 18 providers who examined Plaintiff that Plaintiff was unable to stand for prolonged periods, as his 19 customary position required. Indeed, Dr. Andrews did not even acknowledge that Plaintiff’s 20 examining physicians consistently found that he was unable to stand for prolonged periods. Nor did 21 Dr. Andrews speak to Plaintiffs’ health care providers. Rather, he left messages stating that if they 22 did not return his call within 24 hours their opinions would be disregarded.<sup>12</sup>

23 Plan administrators are not required to “automatically . . . accord special weight to a 24 claimant’s physicians.” Black & Decker Disability Plan v. Nord, 538 U.S. 822, 834 (2003). On the

---

25
 26 <sup>12</sup>The Court notes that Dr. Hinkamp’s 10/22/10 telephone call to Dr. Schweitzer’s office was 27 returned by Leslie Reynolds promptly. See AR 000021, 000025. Had Dr. Andrews allowed a 28 reasonable period of time for a response to his telephone messages, it is likely he would have been able to talk with either Ms. Reynolds or Dr. Schweitzer, both of whom had examined Plaintiff and were familiar with his medical condition. See Cooper v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 486 F.3d 157, 168 (6th Cir. 2007) (finding that independent physician reviewer’s “haste to complete his report in disregard of his explicit instructions to interview [the claimant’s] treating physicians was unreasonable, especially because he allowed so little time before he ‘pulled the trigger’”).

1 other hand, “[p]lan administrators . . . may not arbitrarily refuse to credit a claimant’s reliable 2 evidence, including the opinions of a treating physician.” Id. To the extent that Dr. Andrews did not 3 offer any meaningful explanation for his rejection of the opinion’s of Plaintiff’s physicians, the 4 Disability Plan’s reliance on Dr. Andrews’ conclusion was arbitrary.

5 3. The Denial Was Arbitrary Because in the Face of What it Contended 6 Was Insufficient Medical Documentation the Plan Administrator Did not 7 Conduct its Own Examination

8 The administrator’s denial of continued STD benefits was also arbitrary to the extent that it 9 was based on Dr. Andrews’ implicit rejection of Plaintiff’s subjective complaints of pain. Dr.
10 Andrews did not offer any specific reason for rejecting Plaintiff’s subjective pain, although he 11 apparently relied on the absence of “comprehensive exam findings.” See AR 000138-000139. It is 12 unclear what sorts of findings Dr. Andrew felt were lacking. Plaintiff had been diagnosed with 13 arthritis in his left knee, and that diagnosis was supported by both an x-ray and an MRI. His doctors 14 had consistently noted that Plaintiff experienced severe pain and had prescribed pain medications 15 accordingly. They had also found that Plaintiff’s range of motion was “markedly decreased.”
16 Following the MRI, Plaintiff’s doctors had also diagnosed a “ligamentous injury” and prescribed a 17 knee brace. Whatever additional findings might have been required to determine whether Plaintiff’s 18 pain was severe enough to result in disability could have been obtained by ordering an independent 19 examination be conducted to evaluate Plaintiff’s condition. It is undisputed that the Disability Plan 20 had the right to order such an examination, yet it failed to do so.

21 While a plan is not required to accept a claimants subjective complaints as to the degree of 22 severity, it may be arbitrary and capricious to reject such complaints without a principled reason.
23 DuPerry v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 632 F.3d 860, 874-875 (4th Cir. 2011) (holding that 24 while disability plan was not required to simply accept subjective pain complaints, it could not 25 simply dismiss those complaints “out of hand, especially where there is objective medical proof of a 26 disease that could cause such pain”). Further, in determining whether the denial was arbitrary, the 27 court may consider the fact that the plan had the right to arrange for an independent medical 28 evaluation but failed to do so. See Smith v. Continental Cas. Co., 450 F.3d 253, 263-264 (6th Cir.
2006) (holding that plan acted arbitrarily where it denied disability claim based on rejection of subjective pain evidence but failed to order independent medical examination, even though it had the 1 right to conduct such an examination).

2 Based on all of the considerations discussed above, the Court concludes that the Plan abused 3 its discretion when it terminated Plaintiff's STD benefits. Therefore, the Court remands for an 4 award of benefits retroactive to the effective date of denial for the full 22 week period for which 5 STD benefits would have been available. See Pannebecker v. Liberty Life Assur. Co. of Boston, 542
6 F.3d 1213, 1221 (9th Cir. 2008) (explaining that "[w]here an administrator's initial denial of benefits 7 is premised on a failure to apply plan provisions properly, we remand to the administrator to apply 8 the terms correctly in the first instance . . . [b]ut if an administrator terminates continuing benefits as 9 a result of arbitrary and capricious conduct, the claimant should continue receiving benefits until the 10 administrator properly applies the plan's provisions").

11 E. Whether Attorneys' Fees and Costs Should be Awarded

12 Plaintiff requests an award of fees pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 1132(g). The Court concludes 13 that an award of attorneys' fees and costs is appropriate.

14 Under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(g), a court in its discretion may award reasonable attorneys' fees 15 and costs of an action by a plan participant to either party. The Ninth Circuit has held that in 16 exercising this discretion, district courts should consider the following factors:

17 (1) the degree of the opposing parties' culpability or bad faith; (2) the ability of the opposing 18 parties to satisfy an award of fees; (3) whether an award of fees against the opposing parties 19 would deter others from acting under similar circumstances; (4) whether the parties 20 requesting fees sought to benefit all participants and beneficiaries of an ERISA plan or to 21 resolve a significant legal question regarding ERISA; and (5) the relative merits of the 22 parties' positions.

21 Hummell v. S.E. Rykoff & Co., 634 F.2d 446, 453 (9th Cir.1980). Courts generally construe the 22 Hummell factors in favor of participants in employee benefit plans. McElwaine v. U.S. West, Inc., 23 176 F.3d 1167, 1172 (9th Cir. 1999) ("When we apply the Hummell factors, we must keep at the 24 forefront ERISA's purposes that 'should be liberally construed in favor of protecting participants in 25 employee benefit plans").

26 In light of the Court's conclusion that the denial of Plaintiff's request for continued STD 27 benefits was arbitrary and capricious, the first, third and fifth Hummell factors favor an award of 28 fees. The second factor also favors an award as Defendant has presented no evidence in response to Plaintiff's fee request suggesting that it would be unable to satisfy an award of fees. Only one of the 1 Hummell factors – the fourth factor – arguably does not support an award of fees. Therefore, 2 considering all of the Hummell factors, the Court finds that Plaintiff’s request for fees and costs 3 under § 1132(g) should be granted.

4 V. CONCLUSION

5 Plaintiff’s Motion is GRANTED. Defendant’s Motion is DENIED. The parties shall meet 6 and confer to address the amount of STD benefits to which Plaintiff is entitled under this Order, as 7 well as the amount of Plaintiff’s reasonable attorneys’ fees and costs. If the parties are unable to 8 reach agreement on these issues, within 21 days of the date of this order Plaintiff shall bring a 9 motion setting forth any issues that remain to be resolved by the Court. Defendant may file a 10 response within fourteen (14) days thereafter.

11 IT IS SO ORDERED.
